WHY ROSA PARKS GREEN?

THIS NEIGHBORHOOD BOASTS EVERYTHING FROM LOFT LIVING TO SINGLE FAMILY HOMES.

THE WELLNESS TRAIL AND KIDS SUMMER PROGRAMS ARE FREE FOR ALL.

EVERGREEN COMMONS, A HIP PLACE FOR THE OVER 55 CROWD TO HANG.

WHOEVER SAID THAT NEIGHBORHOOD CONVENIENCE STORES WERE OUT, CERTAINLY HASN'T BEEN HERE.

Tucked in.

For starters, some great news: Live here and you're tucked right in the middle of everything. You're ten to fifteen minutes (strolling speed) from one of the most adorable, hangout-able downtowns in America. And you're minutes by car from the movies, shopping and many, many dining options.

Loft living.

So let's talk loft. Housed in an old furniture factory, Baker Lofts is loft living large with a number of mixed residential condos and rentals. Within its brick walls and massive wood beams, you'll find a restaurant, deli, salon, spa, fitness center, an event center, and a variety of professional offices. Just a few blocks from Hope College, these urban living spaces are called home by students, professors and young professionals.

Lot living.

This area is attractive to everyone from single starters to recent retirees. The quiet urban neighborhood of Rosa Parks Green is popular for those wanting single family and two-family homes. Not complex enough? Look a little closer you'll find a small, quiet and well-maintained apartment complex here.

Rosa Parks Green.

Right in the middle of the neighborhood, this park is the perfect spot to sit and talk with friends and watch your kids play. When school's out for the summer, Rosa Parks Green is home to Holland's summer playground program. It's free, welcomes you to drop in, and puts fun into summer with games, sports, fitness, arts and crafts, snacks, lunch and from time to time a special guest.

More green.

On the edge of the neighborhood is a great little wooded area called Prospect Park. The City bought it in 1907 for $1. It was well worth the buck. Today Prospect Park is full of mature trees of every type. It's a great place to relax while the kids have fun at the playground or enjoy a picnic with someone special.

Shop conveniently.

In Holland the classic neighborhood convenience store has not gone by the wayside. Yes, a super mega grocery store is just a five minute drive, but here, just a minute or two walk away and you'll find yourself in any number of small neighborhood stores for everyday needs.
